The University of Florida, Levin College of Law opened its doors in 1909 with 38 students. Currently, the college boasts over 1,000 students, many enrolled in joint J.D./master's or Ph.D. programs, as well as LL.M. and S.J.D. programs. Five presidents of the American Bar Association and more than half the presidents of The Florida Bar are alumni, as well as dozens of state and federal judges, many past chairs of the ABA and Florida Bar tax sections, four Florida governors, and hundreds of state senators and representatives. Eight U.S. Supreme Court Justices, including five in the past five years, have visited and spoken at the college. The annual Ellen Bellet Gelberg Tax Policy Lecture Series presents prestigious state, national and international lecturers on a wide range of tax policy topics.

The graduate tax program was founded in 1974, and guickly became one of the premier advanced degree programs in the country. With a full-time faculty of nine, the program offers an LL.M. in Taxation degree, as well as LL.M. in International Taxation, and S.J.D. in Taxation degrees. The courses are supplemented each year by the Graduate Tax Lecture Series, which features national tax figures speaking on major tax topics. The program publishes the Florida Tax Review, a leading tax review featuring articles, essays and book reviews by leading legal scholars, practitioners, and economists. The Annual International Tax Symposium hosts distinguished international tax scholars in discussions of major issues. Graduates of the program have come from every state in the nation and from numerous foreign countries as well. They have achieved prominence in law firms and accounting firms throughout the United States and abroad, in high governmental positions and professional organizations, and in law schools as professors, scholars and deans.

The Florida Tax Institute has been created by Florida Tax Education Foundation, Inc., a Florida not for profit corporation, in support of the University of Florida, Levin College of Law Graduate Tax Program.

> The three day conference program features programming devoted to individual income tax, entity tax, and estate planning. The conference will draw attorneys, trust officers, accountants, insurance and financial planners, and planned giving professionals from across Florida and the United States and will build on the exceptional success of the previous conferences.

Attendees

The Levin College of Law has graduated over 23,000 JDs over the past 40 years and 2,800 LL.M.s in taxation. This program will target leading professionals who provide tax, business, and estate planning advice to their clients, including attorneys, CPAs, wealth management advisors, M&A advisors, risk managers, and financial planners. The program has been developed so attendees can attend one-day, two-day or the full three-day program. As a result, we draw more attendees by allowing them to attend those days that are most applicable to their professional practice. Total attendance is expected to exceed 350 professionals, in addition to many current LL.M. students (tomorrow's professionals).

Programming

The program will feature the top speakers in the United States on tax, business, and estate planning issues. It is designed to be practical, informative, engaging, and state of the art. Speakers and presentations will be announced as we near the program date, allowing the Florida Tax Institute to cover the most current issues and planning ideas. This is a tax program developed by practicing tax professionals for other tax professionals – with a state of the art approach!
